RESTORING THE EX-QUEEN.

The Gridiron Club Has the Doubtful Honor.

AMERICAN STATESMEN PRESENT.

A Bodyguard of American Troops surrounded Her—It Consisted of One Bow-legged Marine with a Battered Cutlass and a Damaged Gun.

(From the Washington Post Jan. 28, 1894.)

The Gridiron Club of Washington City, celebrated its ninth anniversary on January 27th, at the Arlington Hotel in Washington, D. C. It is composed of forty newspaper correspondents, and admission to the club is not readily obtained. It gives a dinner every year, and distinguished men are glad to receive invitations to its table.

There is always some new method introduced each year, to amuse the members of the club. The dinner was an elaborate affair. Among the guests the following persons were present: Vice-President Stevenson, Secretary of Agriculture Morton, Postmaster-General Bissell, Assistant Secretary Uhl, Assistant Secretary McAdoo, Assistant Postmaster-General Jones, Senator Allison, Senator Gorman, Senator Mitchell, Senator Proctor, Senator Washburn, L. A. Thurston, Representative Bourke Cockran, Chas. A. Boutelle of Maine, Messrs. Hending of New York; Blanchard of Louisiana; Price of the same State; Amos J. Cummings of New York, and Layers of Texas.

The above names are only a part of those present, but they indicate that the Vice-President and two members of the Cabinet were present, besides many other Democrats.

After a preliminary debate, the initiative of Mr. Frank V. Bennett took place. It was down in a one act drama, entitled "The Restoration of Queen Liliuokalani."

At a given signal the doors of the parlor were thrown open, and down the long hall danced two persons, dressed as Hawaiian hula-hula girls. They were dressed in rope yarn skirts, and flung their legs wildly into the air.

Immediately behind marched in solemn tread the American Minister and the Queen's Ministers. Following this was the "Paramount" and the "Paramour," in full dress. They were the queen's escort. Next came the queen, walking with a stately air, with a royal train trailing behind her. On the side of her head, at an angle of forty-five degrees was perched a crown. She smoked an immense cigar, and slowly puffed the smoke into the air. Every one exclaimed, "She looks every inch a queen."

A body guard of American troops surrounded her. It consisted of one bow-legged marine with a battered cutlass, and a soldier armed with a damaged gun. Behind these walked four native Hawaiians carrying the throne. The procession moved to the middle of the room, where the throne was placed and the ceremony took place. The American Minister to Hawaii announced that, as the United States had failed to restore the queen, the Gridiron Club would now do so, as the club was "paramount." Capt. "Boutelle" was ordered to do it. Instantly the queen keeled over on the floor and got herself mixed up with her dress. The soldier and marine seized her and, raising her up, placed her upon the throne. Surveying the audience for a moment, she threw away the stump of her cigar. It was secured at once by the hula-hula girls and the army and navy.

The queen was asked if she wished to be restored. She replied, Yes, if she could behead all of her subjects. This was agreed to at once. It was also agreed that Mr. Wilson should be appointed Prime Minister. She was then crowned by the American Minister, who announced that he could not protect her after she was put there. The queen looked proudly over the audience, and then slowly bending over reached for an immense axe placed beneath the throne.

Placing it on her lap, she drew her thumb along its edge, then held it aloft and informed the assembly that she desired to cut off the heads of Dole and Thurston.

The army and navy then retired, leaving her mounted on the throne with the hula-hula girls wildly dancing around her. Finding that she was now helpless, she begged the aid of the Gridiron Club, which was conceded by the president of the club, provided she would exchange her title to the throne for a membership of the club. She assented to it and retired. In a few moments she appeared as Mr. Frank V. Bennett, who was declared duly elected.

It is said that during the ceremony of restoration Secretaries Bissell and Morton enjoyed the entertainment greatly and were in convulsions of laughter.

The Post devotes an entire page to a description of the ceremony and gives a number of illustrations of the scene.

Foreign News.

Paris has had another startling sensation provided by an anarchist on the 13th. He threw a bomb into a cafe at the St. Lazare depot, wrecking it and injuring twenty-eight people. The fiend was caught and acknowledged the crime, declaring he was glad his effort succeeded. He was found to be Emile Henry, son of one of the leaders of the Commune, who was beheaded. There is great excitement in Paris, as it is feared that there will be a general outbreak of anarchism. In London placards announce that the principal buildings of the city are to be destroyed at an early date.

The Nicaraguan Government has violated its treaty obligation with Mosquit and England and seized the country. It is a very rich territory, and there is no doubt that Great Britain will raise a row and dispossess the Nicaraguans.

A dispatch from Russia says that at Helsingfores on Tuesday night an ice floe broke adrift on the coast of Germanland and carried off 500 fishermen, with their wives and children, who were on the ice at the time of the accident. Food, clothes and fuel are being sent and their rescue is probable.

A dispatch from Rio Janeiro says that the rebel admiral, De Gama, is seriously wounded and may die. Yellow fever has appeared on board the American men-of-war and the ships have been ordered out of the harbor.

A scheme has been mooted by the Niagara Falls Park and River Railroad to construct a bridge from the Canadian side of the Niagara river to Navy island and thence to the United States shore. It has also been decided by the Grand Trunk Railway to build a single-arch bridge across the Niagara near the present structure. The new bridge is to be of steel and to rest on two rock ledges midway between the top of the banks and the water's edge. It will be 600 feet long and it is estimated to cost $200,000. Work will begin in the spring.

John Barrett, a young journalist of Portland, Or., has been appointed Minister to Siam.

On February 15th a French anarchist, while passing through Greenwich Park, London, was blown to pieces by a bomb which he had secreted under his coat. It is supposed he was about to use it on some of the principal buildings.

"Billy" Deutch, the man who broke the bank at Monte Carlo, died in Denver on the 12th. He was destitute.

De Gama, the Brazilian rebel admiral, has been forced to apologize to the United States through Admiral Benham for firing upon a United States launch.

American News.

The Trans-Mississippi Congress has been well attended and has given the Western delegates a better idea of the possible scope of their work by being held in this city. Among the interesting subjects of discussion were Hawaiian annexation and the Nicaragua canal. The next convention will be held in St. Louis.

Carlo Tirmann, a lion tamer, was fatally mangled in Col. Boone's circus at the Midwinter Fair on the 14th. He was literally chewed to pieces, but lived until the 15th. The electric lights went out during a performance in the arena of the circus and three lions sprang upon him.

Miss Maud Burke, of Oakland, Cal., is to wed Prince Poniatowski, of Poland.

ADMIRAL BELKNAP SPEAKS.

He Favors the Annexation of Hawaii.

[When the senior editor of the Budget was in Washington recently as a witness on Hawaiian affairs before the Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs he made the acquaintance of Rear Admiral George E. Belknap, also a witness before that committee. The Admiral is posted on Hawaiian affairs, and like most naval officers who have been stationed at the Islands, thoroughly favors their annexation to the United States, well appreciating their importance and the value of their acquisition. The Admiral has sent us
